Workshop 5: Students as Innovators in Higher Education

Become a Sustainability Change Agent!

Ready to make a difference at your university?

Interested in sustainability issues but they are not integrated in your lectures at university?

Want to make a difference by changing thoughts and actions of those around you towards social, ecological, and economically appropriate living?

....Come to our workshop “Student as Innovators in Higher Education” during the International Colloquium in Tokyo!

Discuss with inspiring young speakers on the accomplishments of their student led organizations towards sustainability at their own universities!

Learn from their experiences what the challenges for new education models are, and how you can use your university time and energy to make a difference!

Work in smaller groups moderated by engaged students from Japan!

Express your ideas and participate in our poster session on solutions!

Workshop 5 will take place from 13:30 to 16:30 on October 10, 2007. The full program of the 2007 International Colloquium is available at: www.tc07.net

Workshop 5 is jointly organized by:
